

EQUITABLE
ADVISORS

Find out now if you qualify to pay less in student loans

The Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security (CARES) Act is currently set to expire May 1, 2022. When this happens, you will likely need to resume payments on your student loans. However, you could be eligible for the Public Service Loan Forgiveness program.

More than half a million student loan borrowers either qualify or may be approaching eligibility for student loan forgiveness. Are you one of them? We have a calculator to determine quickly and easily whether you may be eligible. We also can offer a webinar to your school.

One of the ways to reduce student loan payments can be by enrolling or increasing contributions to a 403(b) savings plan. You can supplement your pension and better prepare for retirement, all while potentially reducing your payments today.

To see if you are eligible, or interested in a webinar for your school, please contact:

Leslie N. Ogden
Regional Vice President
Western Pennsylvania
412.956.3889 – Direct
leslie.ogden@equitable.com

Brian Lake
Regional Vice President
Eastern Pennsylvania
610.357.9766 – Direct
brian.lake@equitable.com